

SON OF FRENCHMAN WANTS TO FIGHT THE HUNS

LIEUT. L. L. WATSON ON VISIT TO HIS PARENTS

A number of promotions were announced yesterday at the headquarters of the forestry department of District No. 4 because of the fact that Forest Supervisor C. E. Favre of the Humboldt Forest in Nevada with headquarters at Elko will be inducted into the national army with the local draft contingent at Elko on May 10.

Charles De Moisey, now deputy supervisor under Mr. Favre, will be promoted to the higher place and L. J. Palmer, now grazing examiner at the Ogden headquarters office, will be sent to Elko as deputy supervisor.

Mr. Favre was requested by the forestry department at Washington to apply for deferred classification with the time allowed under the draft rules, but he declined the privilege and stated that he believed it his duty to take his place in the army with the other drafted men. When Chief Forester Henry S. Graves was in Ogden a short time ago, Mr. Favre was called to Ogden and made the statement while here that he was in favor of the draft method of raising an army and would rather go that way than to volunteer, as it made the matter more democratic. When asked why he did not apply for deferred classification on industrial grounds, as trained forest men are very essential, he smiled and said:

"O, perhaps they will assign me to forest work in France, and perhaps I will get a crack at the Huns with a real shooting gun. The chief reason why I want to go to the army is because my father is a Frenchman and I believe he would expect me to be there. I don't want my father to feel aggrieved at his son. And, besides that, the Hun has done some things that makes a man want to fight."

W. Irwin Poulter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Moroni Poulter of Ogden, writes to his parents that he has finished his special course at the officers' training camp at Camp Merritt, New Jersey, and has been selected to go at once to France to attend the "school of fire."

In his letter to his parents, he says that the group of graduates of which he is a member are fully equipped and ready to go over the seas. They are not expecting their commissions to be granted until they finish the course at the French school. Young Poulter is a graduate of the Weber academy.

Second Lieutenant L. L. Watson, son of W. G. Watson of 2339 Lincoln avenue who has been visiting his parents in the city on a two weeks' furlough, is called back to his duties. Lieutenant Watson has just completed the officers' training school course at Little Rock, Ark., and was commissioned a second lieutenant.

He is a graduate of the Ogden high school and is very well known in Ogden.

COST OF OPERATING COUNTY SCHOOLS

The county school board has estimated that it will require $115,970 to run the Weber county schools during the next year, including maintenance and improvements proposed. Of this sum $73,470 will have to be raised by local district taxes and the county needs the balance of $42,500 to be derived from the state. These figures were reported yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the county school board. The report covers expected expenses from July 1, 1915 to June 30, 1916. The estimates as proposed by the board are as follows:

For the support and maintenance of the schools during said year, $39,970. For purchase of school sites and erection of buildings, $24,500. Interest on outstanding bonds accruing during the year, $350. Sinking fund for redemption of bonds, $150. Total, $115,970.

Amount estimated to be realized from board of apportionments of state school taxes, state school interest, and rental fund, $42,500.

Amount required by board to be raised by local district tax, $73,470. The resolution was passed by the information of the county commissioners and other county officers and certified copies were ordered sent to each official.

Among other business, May 18 was set as the date for commencement exercises of the county grade schools, which are usually held in the Ogden tabernacle. The board also visited the schools at Birch Creek, Utah, and Riverdale and inspected conditions there.

WAS SHE VICTIM OF "MURDER PLANT"?

Who was Hellmuth Schmidt? Did he operate a "murder plant"? Did he have official German connections? Did he lure girls to the alleged "murder plant" at Royal Oak on promises of marriage, to be robbed or outraged and killed, and their bodies burned?

These are puzzles Detroit officials are trying to solve, following Schmidt's suicide. He killed himself in jail after confessing that he burned the body of Miss Augusta Steinbach of New York.

Miss Steinbach disappeared a year ago, after Schmidt had lured her to his home by promising to marry her. Although admitting he burned her body, Schmidt insisted she killed herself when he refused "to sleep with her."

When Schmidt's home was searched a tin box full of women's jewelry was found hidden in an organ. There were 19 rings, three small gold watches and great quantities of gold pins, earrings and other trinkets, many of them set with diamonds.

He was said to have been a former German army officer. His face bore duelling scars. He was employed in the Ford plant, and had small pen drawings of airplane parts in his possession. When arrested he denied that he could read or write, but many papers in his hand-writing, in both German and English, were found.

STANDARD OIL VIOLATES LAW

Federal Trade Commission Issues Complaint Against Company in India.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The federal trade commission today issued a complaint against the Standard Oil company of Indiana, charging violation not only of the trade commission act prohibiting unfair business practices but of the Clayton anti-trust law as well.

As an infringement of the Clayton act the complaint asserts that the company is discriminating in price between different purchasers of petroleum products and "that the effect of this discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition, or tend to create monopoly." It is also charged that the Standard Oil company of Indiana fixes different prices in different sections, selling its products at a lower price in highly competitive areas.

The company is accused of stifling competition in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, North Dakota, South Dakota and Oklahoma by distributing its products by means of tank wagon stations and tank wagons and refusing to sell in carload lots or in such manner that the products can be re-shipped to other territories where higher prices prevail "except where such sales are made to other Standard companies."

The trade commission complains that the company sells its gasoline and kerosene only to those dealers who will handle other products of the company. An advertising campaign, designed to injure its competitors, also is charged against the company.

MANY FISHING BOATS OPERATING

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., March 23.—(By mail.)—Fully 300 fishing boats are operating out of Prince Rupert this spring. From the little, weather-beaten craft carrying two or three men and a single dog, up to large steel steamers, the fishing fleet is busier than ever this spring, for the price of halibut is high enough to pay the fishermen handsomely.

Where two or three men may sell from 3000 to 5000 pounds of halibut at wartime prices, the industry at present is returning what may be termed by the average man "big money." But the men must understand their work. The treacherous waters and terrible storms act as a deterrent to the venturesome small fishermen who tempt fate in the hope of making a big haul. The small boats fish along the mountain-girt shores of the Skeena delta and off the Queen Charlotte islands. The large steamers, however, to whom a catch of 100,000 pounds of halibut is but a fair voyage, frequently make long voyages.

Fishermen assert that the halibut banks are not being depleted, although it is noticeable that the larger boats are obliged to make long voyages each year.

BROOM HOTEL HAS A SMALL BLAZE

The Broom hotel, at the corner of Twenty-fifth street and Washington avenue, was the scene of a fire that broke out in the attic space just above the roof of the building at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, causing something of a panic among the guests, but doing comparatively little damage.

At the fire station the smoke was seen issuing from the roof of the building and the firemen were on the way with their equipment before the alarm was turned in. The firemen immediately got their hook and ladder into operation and were on the roof of the building with their hose in a very short space of time. They opened a trap door on the roof that led to a short and narrow stairway which connected the hallway of the top floor with the roof and in which the flames were roaring. It is believed that the fire started in this stairway from defective electric wiring. Near the top of the stairway the attic space begins and runs under the roof. This space is not high enough for a man to more than crawl in, and the flames were spreading beneath the roof and over the ceiling of the top floor rooms where the firemen got their apparatus working.

With the chemical engine and two hose lines the fire was extinguished. The firemen found some difficulty after they had played the water on the building, electric shocks being frequent, until the wires were
